

The most visited destination is also a FinTech hub.

ORLANDO

YOU DON'T KNOW THE HALF OF IT.®

It might be surprising to learn that Orlando companies are playing a pivotal role designing the technology behind the world's economy; however, Orlando's large pool of technical talent, plethora of tech educational resources, and low cost of doing business has created fertile ground for financial technology innovation to thrive.

IT'S A SMART WORLD AFTER ALL

Beyond Orlando's talent pool of recent graduates and existing FinTech workforce, the talent you need currently works across the region in diverse industries. An analysis of online profiles and resumes for Orlando employees found over 60,000 employees in the region with skills in the areas of financial services, loans, and software development.
